DAUGHTER TELLS STORY OF RUIN

Lecherous Fiend Gave Her
"Drink Then Ruined Her."

To Save Father From Death on the Scaffold She Relates Tale of Shame.

Houston, Va., June 25.—Between stifling sobs, with tears streaming from her bright blue eyes, and while striving to hold back the huge lump in her throat, Miss Elizabeth Loving, who has occupied the center of the stage in the trial of her father, Judge William G. Loving for the murder of Theodore Estes, told on the witness stand here to-day her story of her alleged ruin by the young man, whom her parent shot down.

The recital was probably the most dramatic ever heard in a Virginia court of justice and rivaled the story by Evelyn Nesbit Thaw of her ruin by Stanford White. It was the same story she told to her father on the morning of the tragedy, and which culminated in his hunting down and slaying the man whom she charges with perpetrating the deed.

Estes, she said, had given her a drink of whisky from a flask he had in his pocket while they were out buggy riding on the afternoon prior to the killing. After taking the drink, she declared that she immediately began to feel dizzy and her head "spun around" as if she had been given some powerful drug. In this condition and despite her protests she declared that her escort drove her over an unfrequented road, and despite her screams outraged her.

Exhausted by the struggle and her mental faculties rendered incapable from the stimulant, the witness declared that she recalled nothing more until she regained her senses while in bed late that night at the home of County Clerk S. L. Kidd, where she had been visiting Miss Kidd.

She testified that on the following morning when her father asked her for the cause of her being brought to the home of Mr. Kidd in an unconscious and drugged condition, she related to him on bended knees the same statement she made to-day.

It was this recital, declared the defense, which so affected the mind of Judge Loving that it impelled him to commit a crime, which according to his statement, could have been prevented by no power "except God Almighty."

Whether the story told by the twenty-year-old girl to-day can be torn to pieces and disproved by the prosecution remains to be seen, and on the disproving of this story hangs the fate of the defendant. They claim that it can be shown that the outrage laid at the door of the man whose lips are sealed forever was impossible. The rebuttal evidence by the prosecution will be probably the most important feature of the case.

Miss Loving admitted that she had taken two drinks with young Estes during the drive, the first one being while at Estes' store. She was asked about other occasions when it is charged that she drank whisky, but the prosecution objected on the ground that it had no bearing on the case.

Not so When he Was Here.

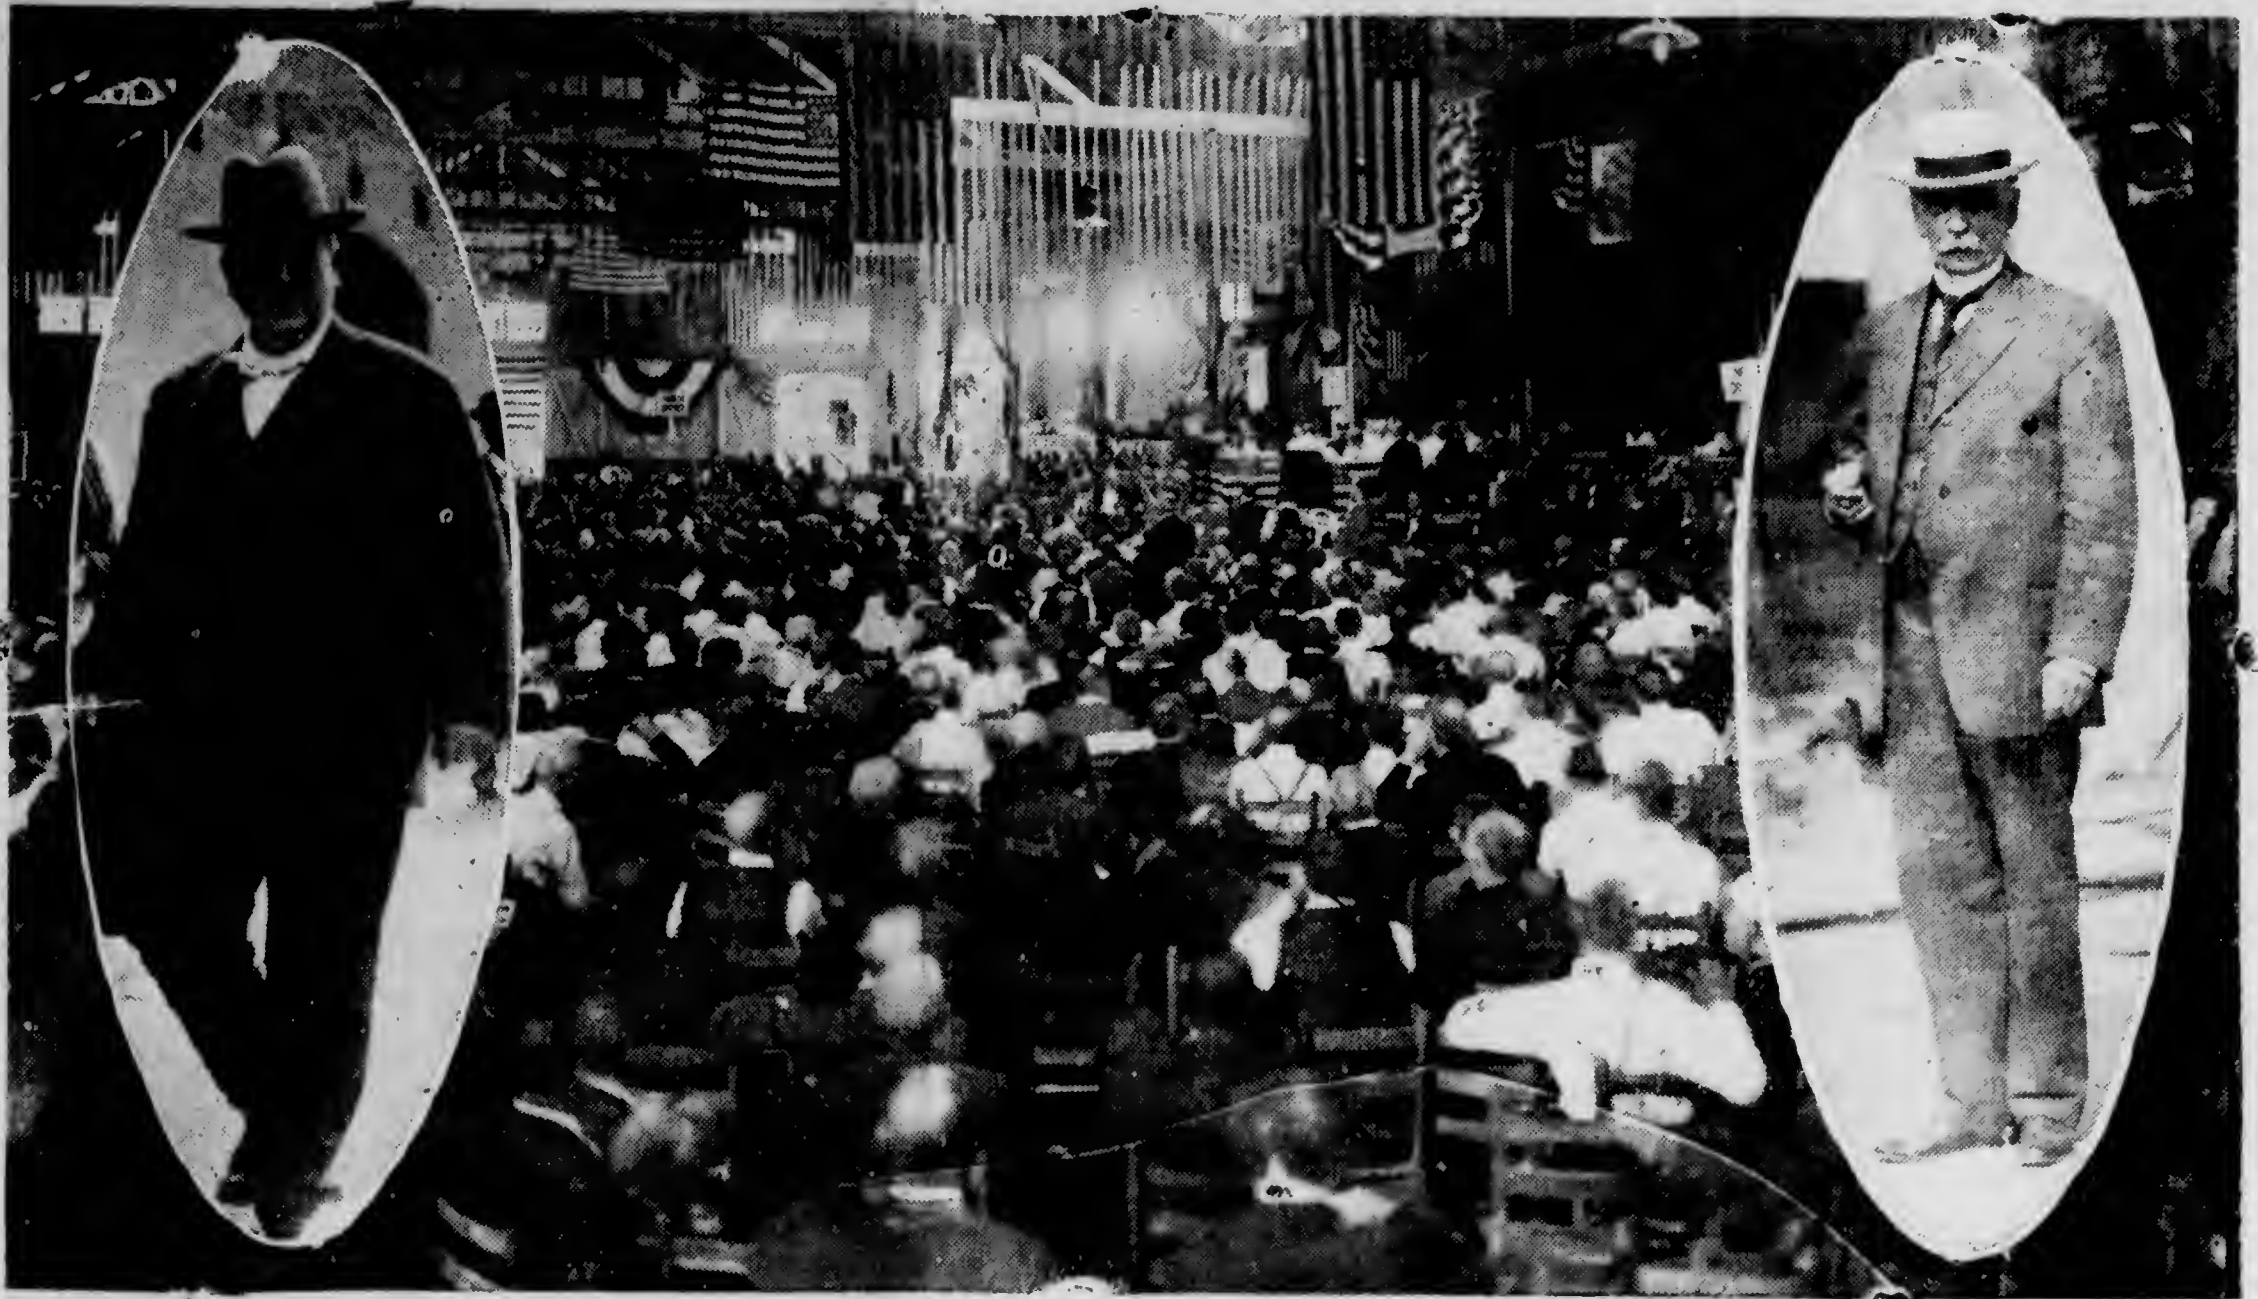

There is a falling off in the school census in Ohio county from last year's report. There must be something wrong in that neck of the woods. When the writer taught school there 40 years ago and "boarded" "around" he often slept in a trundle bed with half a dozen "kids," and the man that sent less than seven to school was considered no good.—Central City Republican.

Light Company Reorganized.

For some months past there has been a general complaint concerning the service given by the Electric Light Company, and this complaint culminated in the action of the city council refusing to contract for street lights. The fact seems to be that the local plant is not sufficiently equipped to handle the volume of business.

At a meeting held here Wednesday, Mr. J. D. Cooper, of Fordsville, and Mr. Pope McAdams, of Hawesville, sold and transferred the control and major portion of the stock to local business men of Hartford, and the company was reorganized by electing a new board of directors headed by M. L. Heavrin as President.

A GLIMPSE OF THE RECENT REPUBLICAN CONVENTION, WHICH NOMINATED THE NEXT STATE OFFICIALS.

EX-GOVERNOR W. O. BRADLEY.

JUDGE W. H. HOLT.

Extensive repairs and improvements were voted and an expert electrician engaged to over-haul the entire plant.

A large amount of money will be spent in buying new engine transformers &c., and it is the intention of the new management to make the plant give permanent and first class service.

This is as it should be and the citizens of the town will welcome a lighting plan is keeping with the needs of the city and when assured that the repairs will be made the City Council will doubtless give us more light.

The gentlemen who have invested and are investing in this enterprise exemplify their faith in Hartford, and merit public support in their efforts to furnish satisfactory service.

NIGHT RIDERS VISIT OHIO COUNTY

Destroy J. L. Hoovers Plants and Take all of Louis Trogden's Large Enough to Set.

The "night riders" have invaded Ohio county, and two farmers have suffered loss at their hands.

They visited the plant beds of J. L. Hoover in the Clear Run neighborhood and stripped them of every plant in them.

Somebody also visited the tobacco beds of Louis Trogden in the same neighborhood. In this instance the night visitor rode in a wagon and he stripped the bed of all plants large enough to transplant and left the smaller plants to grow larger and if another tobacco plant thief does not visit Mr. Trogden's beds he may yet have plants to put out a small crop.

The visitors to Mr. Hoover's beds do not want him to raise any tobacco at all, consequently they destroyed his beds, but the visitor to Mr. Trogden's beds is willing for Mr. Trogden to raise a crop if he can only get ahead of the "night riders" in transplanting his plants.

From later reports it is thought that all these plants were taken by parties who wanted them for setting purposes, which of course is wrong but not so much so as simply destroying them for spite or to prevent the owners from raising the weed. Reports may also be exaggerated.

Murderer Snored was Captured.

Mayfield, Ky., June 25.—Without apparent provocation Ed Williams shot and killed Roger Dawson at a picnic near here, after which he escaped. An hour later the officers on the trail found him asleep in a fence corner.

Had not the murderer snored officers say they would have overlooked him.

TOBACCO BEDS SUFFERING IN DAVIESS COUNTY

Plants Belonging to Poolers and Eqnity Men are Destroyed by Night Riders.

The "night riders" have been at it in Daviess county, says the Owensboro Inquirer. The plant beds of Will Glenn, a young farmer living about three miles from the city on the Henderson road was destroyed. The bed, which was a late one, contained plants enough to plant five or six acres and all of them were totally destroyed.

Mr. Glenn discovered the loss of his plants Sunday morning, although the act of vandalism was apparently committed as early as Wednesday or Thursday night. Mr. Glenn had not seen the bed since Tuesday afternoon. He has absolutely no clue as to the identity of the person who destroyed his property. He expects, however, to make the most thorough investigation possible, and if he can establish the identity of the person who destroyed his property, he will prosecute them to the extent of the law.

Mr. Glenn is a prominent young farmer, and so far as he knows, has not a single enemy. He is not a member of the tobacco growers' organization, but it is stated that he has heretofore pooled his tobacco with the A. S. of E. He will raise a fair crop of tobacco this year in spite of the destruction of last week. He had previously planted several acres, but was depending on the bed that was destroyed for plants to set that portion of the ground which could not be gotten in the condition for early planting.

The only other beds reported as having been destroyed in Daviess county were those of Mike and Paul Schrenk. The plants were killed by the burning of the canvass over them, but it is now believed that the canvass was set on fire by sparks from a locomotive, the beds being a few yards from the railroad track.

FOR THE BUSY READER.

J. Warren Shelby, a great-grandson of the first Governor of Kentucky, ended his life in a small town in Louisiana by swallowing carbolic acid. His home was in Danville.

President Roosevelt has appointed Michael E. Bannin, a business man of New York City, a member of the Board of Indian Commissioners, to succeed Dr. Maurice Egan.

The President has forwarded to Charles Arms, of Clarksville, Tenn., a medal for saving the lives of three men in a wreck at that place in September 1906.

The Epworth League of the Louisville Conference is in session at Cloverport with the largest number of delegates that has ever been in attendance at an annual meeting.

Extensive loss in road making will be conducted by the Government in and around Bowling Green during the summer, all sorts of material being used. The tests will be used as guides for the work in all parts of the country.

According to the views of Judge H. M. Garwood, a prominent Texas lawyer, the Smith views the candidacy of William J. Bryan with coldness and indifference, and people in his section of the country think it certain that the Nolenians should be deemed a Democrat.

Politicians at Washington are speculating as to what will be done with the serious charges which have been pending for some time against Harry H. Meyers, Register of the Land Office at Little Rock, Ark., and Assistant United States Attorney Benton, of the same State.

The Kentucky Baptist Ministers' Association, which met in Mayfield, was largely attended. At the meeting there of the Kentucky Baptist Education Society, the Rev. Dr. E. Y. Mullins of Louisville, was elected president.

The Republican City Committee of Paducah has offered to permit the Woman's Club and High School Alumni Association to name the ten candidates for school trustees to be elected next fall, without regard to the party affiliations of the candidates.

It is announced in Paris that the French Ambassador at Washington, M. Jusserand, will return to France shortly and submit to the Foreign Office the propositions of the United States and the result of his negotiations with Secretary Root regarding a new commercial agreement.

The test of whether or not the State can issue a saloon license in a prohibition district, where the city license still runs after the State's authority to sell has expired, was tested at Bowling Green and determined by the County Clerk issuing the license. The County Judge is expected to hand down a written opinion.

Notice to Call Meeting.

There will be a call meeting of the Industrial Co-operative Association at the McHenry school house June 29th, 1907. Meeting called promptly at 9 o'clock a. m. The purpose of said meeting is the subscription of stock and elections of office.

DASTARDLY DEED COMMITTED NEAR STANLEY.

Mrs. Ed Fenwick Victim of Criminal Assault By Unknown White Man.

Screaming for assistance and fighting with all the power in her body, Mrs. Ed Fenwick, a widow, thirty years of age, was attacked at her home near Stanley shortly after noon yesterday and criminally assaulted by an unknown white man. Mrs. Fenwick was dragged into a stable and when she recovered consciousness an hour afterwards her assailant, whom she had never seen before, had fled. She was able to get to her house and told the members of Norris' family, with whom she resides, of what had occurred.

Great excitement was caused in the Stanley neighborhood by the dastardly deed. Every section of that end of the county was notified of the affair. An effort was made to get bloodhounds, but at a late hour last night none had been secured.

Dr. Aud was summoned to Mrs. Fenwick's bedside. Mrs. Fenwick stated that she had gone to the well for a bucket of water. A man suddenly dashed from the stable which was nearby, and grabbed her and put his hand over her mouth and dragged her through the door. She declared that she had never seen a man before but would recognize him if she should see him again.

Mrs. Fenwick is a well known woman of the Stanley neighborhood. Her husband has been dead for several years.—Tuesday's Owensboro Messenger.

Among The Lodges.

The Macabees had one candidate for initiation last night, and a good attendance.

The time for the Masonic banquet has been changed from Saturday night July 6, to Monday night July 8th. The various committees should get down to work at once. We hope to be able to give the entire program in our next issue.

The following Chiefs were elected at the regular meeting of Ocho Tribe of Red Men: Prophet, R. L. Tweddell; Sachem, Seth Mosley; Senior Sagamore, R. E. Duke; Junior Sagamore, Sam Riley; Chief of Records, J. Noy Foster; Keeper of Wampum, John Wesley Taylor. S. A. Bratcher has the honor of being Past Sachem. The degree team will be ready for work at the next meeting.

The K. P. boys got busy last Monday night at a call meeting and conferred the Page Rank on three candidates. At the regular meeting Tuesday night two applicants were elected to receive the ranks. Knight Roscoe Renter was elected Keeper of Records and Seal to fill out the unexpired term of Knight C. M. Crowe, resigned. Next Tuesday night the new officers will be installed, and there is work pressing in all three ranks. Let every member be present. Nothing will so encourage your new officers as good attendance. We know the weather is warm, and the hall uncomfortable, but there is work to do. No lodge ever had a fever array of new members knocking at its door. Let us be there to greet them, and show them the reality in Pythianism.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends who so kindly remembered us during the final illness of our little daughter, Dena Louise, and who sincerely pray that God's richest blessings may rest on them all.

BLUE EYES AND BROWN.

Many People Rely on Them to Determine Temperment.

Which are the Truthful and Honest and Which the Crul and Treachorous?

Northerners have an invincible tendency to assign virtue or goodness to the fair complexion, wickedness or falsehood to the dark. If one could rely upon the test of novels it might be argued that this prejudice is weakening—for the villain whether male or female, is sometimes blond nowadays, and the heroine brunette. One might almost venture to say that it was never so formerly. Perhaps there is no sound reason for thinking that the blue-eyed are thankful, honest and loving—in the sense of affection and constancy—rather than the brown.

But the striking reports on the association of complexion and disease in hospitals which Dr. Beddoes suggested long ago, and Dr. Shrubbsall, foremost among many now is carrying out, have a certain bearing on the point. Says the Pall Mall Gazette, "They prove that dark hair and eyes are supplanting the light in this country—a fact which all thoughtful persons have observed.
But also they demonstrate the reason—which is, shortly, that the blonde are constitutionally unfitted to endure the conditions of town life, and actually perish in the foul atmosphere and the barbarism of the shows. Adults enter the hospitals in proportions far too great and children die. They must have fresh air, wholesome exercise and decent surroundings to keep in health.
But these are the conditions of rustic life, which, as universal experience in all ages, preserves, if it does not generate, such virtues as simplicity, truthfulness and honesty, which town life, favored by the dark, corrupts."

Upon the other hand, the brown-eyed people assert that the fair are treacherous and cruel. This is a common belief in Italy, where it might be traced to a popular reminiscence of the blonde northerners who ravaged that hapless country from generation to generation. But it is much older.
Plutarch cites a contemporary epigram passed upon Cato the Censor, who was red-haired and gray-eyed, which shows that it was current even then. And it is an article of faith all through the east.

Sir Edward Malet tells in his biography how he once called at Alex-andretta, and the population assembled, believing him to be the new governor of Cyprus. To his dragoman he expressed a hope that they were favorably impressed by his appearance, at any rate, but the dragoman honestly replied that it was not so—a blue-eyed governor they thought must be harsh and cruel. And he added that the feeling is general all through the Levant. But the famous code of Menu an orthodox Hindoo is flatly forbidden to marry a woman with gray eyes or red hair—perhaps for this reason, though none is assigned. In all cases it may be that a tradition of ruthless invaders from the north has caused the prejudice, since many Afghans, and many Persians of the wilder tribes, are fair—not to mention the British in modern times. But that is an assumption.

We are using the term blue-eyed in a conventional sense. As a matter of fact, that color is the rarest by far of all. Some assert, indeed that it does not exist, and many doubtless have never seen it. Perhaps the rarity of blue is not to be regretted, unless by enthusiasts who set beauty above charity and humanity. For all animals which have blue eyes are more or less "hard of hearing." This is generally known in the case of cats, and it is equally true of horses and wild creatures. It is an instance of co-relation, as Darwin termed the mysterious law and one would expect to find it apply to human beings, as is alleged. Also we must admit that blue or green or gray eyes have a narrower range of expression than dark. Perhaps, indeed the fair do not respond so quickly to the impulse of the moment; of more sedate or color temperament, they can not meet a word or a thought halfway and flesh back the answer instantly. At any rate, brown eyes, which we call black, have an advantage in power of expression.

It used to be taken for granted that savages possess a wider range of eyesight and keener observation than civilized men. Common sense favored the belief and a report published by the surgeon of the Western ophthalmic hospital some years ago gave an alarming picture of the State of things among school children. But persons who speak with authority have contradicted the popular notion of late—especially Messrs. Spencer and Gillen, in their great work on the Englemans.
Of course, these witnesses may have unusual powers of vision, but their remarks show at least that the European may be equal in this respect

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulae, being convinced that the better the composition of these medicines is known, the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great, blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchitis, troubles, weakness and hang-over of the system, which, if neglected or badly treated, lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials.
They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

85-POUND CAT FISH IN SAWLOG.

Narrowly Escaped Being Cut into Two by Four's at an Evansville Sawmill.

It was a cruel fate that a fat eighty-five pound "yellow" cat fish narrowly missed at Helrich's sawmill at Evansville last week. Had not Steve Brown, a sawyer, heard dull sounds like the flopping of a fish tail as a hollow fourteen foot elm log approached the buzzing circular saw, the big fish would have been cut into fish steaks of the usual two by four and two by six dimensions. Steve let his eyes and his ears and peering into the muddy hole at the hollow end of the log, saw the caudal appendage of a fish of unknown length and weight.

After a little work with the ax the fish was pulled out by three men.
When measured the length of the fish was found to be five feet and eight inches from the tip of tail to the huge mouth.

The log from which the fish was taken also contained several hundred billions of fish eggs, a dishpan of them being collected. The log was forty inches in diameter and was brought from Green river Tuesday in a large raft. From all evidence the fish had been in the log for months. The forward fins of the fish had become fastened over the rough surface of the hollow log and apparently when Mr.
Fish, (or rather Mrs. Fish) attempted to take a backward slide out of the log it could not be disengaged.

When dressed the fish measured over four feet in length.

NIGHT RIDERS NOT TOUCHED.

Christian County Grand Jury Fails to Indict Scrapers.

Detective Pedigo Asked to be Excluded From Making Disclosures Till Next Grand Jury.

A Hopkinsville special says: The grand jury adjourned Tuesday at noon without returning any indictments against night riders. The matter investigated did not come to a vote, though it is believed an indictment could have been returned by a close vote. As a whole the body was a representative one, composed of good men.
The foreman, J. T. Walker, was fearless conscientious and earnestly in favor of carrying out the court's instructions and publishing the riders. Nine of the jurors belonged to the association but he it said to the credit of the association some of its members were the strongest in favor of going to the bottom of the lawlessness. Evidence enough was secured to find an indictment in more than one case, but in seeking for corroborative evidence, Detective Tom B. Pedigo was brought before the jury the last day. He frankly told them that he had evidence, but was not ready to disclose it, as it would interfere with the complete exposure he expected to be able to make by the time another grand jury meets. A premature exposure of the line he was working on would endanger the success of his investigations. After hearing him, the grand jury decided to file all the evidence secure as the basis of further investigation and let the matter go over for ninety days, when the September grand jury will meet.

The failure to indict men whose criminality was shown by strong circumstantial evidence, is liable to embolden the night riders to commit further outrages. In fact here are ready indications of new methods of destroying property.

Mr. R. L. Horn, of Lafayette, whose plants were destroyed in the beds, was in town Tuesday and told a Kean-tuckian representative that he had been told that the firemen would not be allowed to thrash his wheat or corn.
He placed his farm in the hands of a real estate company and is preparing to sell out and move.

It is now known to be a fact that a citizen of the Roaring Spring neighborhood was recently taken out of his home by a mob of fifteen or twenty men and whipped for "talking too much," and ordered him to leave the country, which he promptly did.
Those in a position to know say that even worse crimes are to be respected. Some of the night riders are permitting their identity to become known, so confident are they that the courts are powerless to push them.

Kills Bear With Penknife.

Jay Hunch, of this city, had an experience last week that bids fair to rival Roosevelt's coyote yarn. Hunch is a filer at Larkin Bros' logging camp on the Wishkah, and one day last week with a friend and several dogs started out to find a bee tree.

They had not gone far when the dogs started up a bear. Bruin took refuge in the top of a tree, but was finally dislodged, and one of the dogs managed to get a good hold on the animal's ear and hung there. Hunch had no other weapon than a jackknife, but he got it in working order and commenced the hand-to-hand battle. He struck the bear about 40 times, finally severing his jugular vein, and bruin, weak from the loss of blood, gave up the fight. The bear's hide is literally punctured with holes around the throat. The animal weighed about 200 pounds.—S-attle Times.

How to Make Toffee.

Toffee is an almost unknown sweet over here, but the small English children carve on it and usually know how to make it. It's a quite different thing from Butter Scotch, which is jolly good but, not so jolly good as toffee. Here's a recipe for it: Take three pounds of "cane" or "C" sugar, but not the amount of a pound and a quarter, with half a teaspoonful of cream of tartar. First dissolve the sugar in just as much cold water as may be required for the purpose, then mix all the ingredients together and boil them without stirring the mixture until it will snap when dropped into cold water. At this moment remove it from the fire and add ten drops of lemon extract according to its strength, and pour the mixture into well greased pans, to be cut into squares as it cools.

120 HOGS AND SHEEP FOR BARBECUE.

Planters of Kentucky, Tennessee And Virginia Expect 50,000 Guests at Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Planters' Protective Association of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, which will meet at Guthrie, Ky., September 26, is causing much interest.

The management of the association has issued a letter to its members asking them for the usual contributions in the shape of money, hogs and sheep. It is said that preparations will be made to entertain fifty-thousand people. Besides the hawks of excellent meat will be served by the members living on the place, six hundred hogs and an equal number of sheep will be slaughtered for the occasion.
Fifteen barrels of pickles and fifty cans of beans will also be furnished.

Speakers of note will be present from many States and some twenty brass bands will participate in the parade, which is expected to be the longest ever held in the South. The Louisville board of trade will be invited to attend in body. The meeting would not have again been held at Guthrie this year if a number of much larger cities would not have been chosen for its annual meetings, as it was also the most central point. The planters of the three States are looking forward to having a big time.

The Passing of Congressional Singing.

Until within a few years congregational singing was one of the conspicuous features of every community in this country. From Maine to California at least, twice on Sunday, and usually a evening service in the middle of the week, practically the entire population assembled in the churches chiefly to sing. Those who could, and those who sang, they could were no more fond of fitting out with views than were those who could not sing and knew it, but were grateful for the opportunity to indulge their passion untroubled and untroubled in the security of the chorus.

All this is passing away, no the love of doing a little singing, but the opportunity for doing it. The knowing ones and those who wish to be thought knowing have frowned it down. The congregation must listen; not participate; the man or woman who can not sing a little bit yet yearns for the relief or stimulus of singing, must take to the woods or pity. Singing directly develops those qualities that lift the thoughts and the hearts from the ground and lighten the burdens of life. The preacher who would pack his church will insist upon congregational singing and encourage everybody to join in heartily. He would lose only the finicky, and the finicky would not be happy even in heaven. —Our country.

A prompt, pleasant, good remedy for coughs and colds, is Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. It is especially recommended for babies and children, but good for every member of the family. It contains honey and tar and tastes nearly as good as maple syrup. Children like it. Sold by all druggists.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For Governor,
AUGUSTUS E. WILLSON, of Louisville.

For Lieutenant Governor,
W. H. COX,
Of Mason County.

For Attorney General,
JAMES BREATHITT,
Of Christian County.

For Auditor,
FRANK P. JAMES,
Of Mercer County.

For State Treasurer,
CAPT. ED FARLEY,
Of McCracken County.

For Secretary of State, DR. BEN L. BRUNER,
Of Hart County.

For Supd. of Public Instruction, J. G. CRABBE,
Of Boyd County.

Commissioner of Agriculture, M. J. RANKIN,
Of Henry County.

For State Senator,
J. W. WRIGHT,
Of Muhlenburg County.

For Representative,
DR. J. A. DUFF,
Sulphur Springs Precinct.

No better State ticket has ever been submitted to the voters of Kentucky by any party, than the one which adorns the top of this column.

Be sure to read the Republican State platform published in this issue, and remember that the Democratic State ticket is without any platform whatever.

In some quarters Democracy seems to fear that their tariff thunder will be appropriated by the Republicans next year in their platform. Nothing could be better for them should such a thing happen. Their candidate for President would be elected beyond a doubt.

The Hartford Herald is very much disturbed because there were so few negatives in the recent Republican conventions held here. Well, if there had been a great many present, that fact would have described it just as much. So what's the use. You can't please a chronic grumbler.

The Republican State platform demands a county unit based upon law for the entire State. The Democratic party, nor any of its candidates have gone so far. Their party and its candidates for Governor stands committed to the present county unit law which excludes citizens of the first second, third and fourth classes.

In the course of his speech before the recent Republican Convention ex-Governor Bradley said: "Boys we have got them. They are on the run.
If you are true to yourselves, your party and your country, there can be no doubt of the result. These are words of the wisest counsel and Republicans will win this year if they act as therein directed."

The Louisville Evening Post says,
"The Republican party in Kentucky is without leaders." We have had a number of valuable accessions from the Democrats in the last few years, who gave promise in that line, but the Post Editor always insists on shelving them in some Federal office, thus leaving the old line fellows to take all the responsibility of leading the boys in the trenches.

The Hartford Republican has the largest circulation of any paper in Ohio county, and is therefore the best advertising medium in which to reach the people in Ohio county. It does not pay any postage on its circulation within the county, and without does any other paper published within the county. The Herald's statement that it pays more postage than this paper was made for the purpose of misleading.

The Evening Post says the Republicans have no State platform, and yet it contains the very things for which its "man of the hour," Mr.
Marshall Bullitt contended in his speech before the convention. The plain truth is the Post is a greater enemy to the Republican party than the Courier-Journal or Times. Republicans should cease giving it their support. It has been fed and clothed by Republicans too long already.

On the sixth page of this issue we publish a humorous "jag" embracing a request that everybody "help us get the news. We took it from an exchange and so state. After it was put in type but before the Republican was printed the Hartford Herald looms up with the article on its first page as an original production.
The Herald is getting quite as bad about such things as other country weeklies within the scope of our observation.

The editor of the Evening Post having failed to run and to rule the Republican State Convention, when last heard from, was in consultation with Gov. Beckham offering free advice and importuning him to recognize the Knott, Kohn, Whallen combine in the appointment of city officers for Louisville. If Kentucky Republicans ever again allow this man to dictate to them, there will be swarms of life-long Republicans who will ask to be transferred to some-other ship. If the Taft managers are wise, they will select some other organ in the State.

Dick Knott with his half century of experience, special endowment and wonderful tact at prevarication cannot approach the pace set by the Hartford Herald in dealing with the Republican State Convention and the platform enunciated by it. Its column and half devoted to the subject is one continuous misrepresentation embracing not a single true honest statement. The platform, which has been pronounced good by the Courier-Journal and which will go down in history as a magnificent State paper contained not a sentence, paragraph or word that sounded good to the critical ear of the Herald editors.

The Herald this week seeks to perpetrate its old story on the public to the effect that the present Republican county administration has increased expenses, by raising salaries of officers. This was exposed by us months ago. We do not know the Herald's purpose in repeating it, except it is under the idea that you can make an untruth go, through repetition. The County Clerk's records will show that the late Democratic County Attorney, was paid an average about $800 per year. The late Democratic County Judge was paid a salary of $650 and $100 for acting as Auditor. Besides on an average about $100 per year for acting as special commissioner for various purposes. The present County Judge and County Attorney receive $750 per year, and nothing for extra services. Instead of being an increase in expenses to the County, this is a saving of about $200 per year. All well informed people know that the new office, created under Democratic law, Road and Bridge Commissioner for the entire county, takes the place of seven Road and Bridge Commissioners, and while he is paid a salary of $800, this is about $200 less than was paid on yearly under the old system of 10 per cent. on the amount expended, which is usually about $10,- 000. This old yarn was dragged out, revamped and fired off by the Herald to justify the present State Administration in taking from our soldier boys half of their meager 43 cents per day, while in encampment, to provide a fund with which to pay their expenses to Lexington. The great State of Kentucky is disgraced by such a party proceeding, and the Herald editors know it. It cannot be escaped by misrepresenting the Republican administration in Ohio county.

NO PLATFORM AT ALL.

We have repeatedly called attention to the fact that in the State campaign in Kentucky this year our Democratic friends were merely running for the offices, having enunciated no platform of principles. To our mind this seemed to their disadvantage, as there is a large and constantly growing class of voters, even in Kentucky, who want to know what they are voting for, as well as for whom. However, the Courier-Journal, the Democratic mouth piece, takes a different and somewhat peculiar view of it. Here is what it says:

"The Democrats have an advantage in having no platform at all.
This gives latitude for debate. On the liquor question, indeed, the Republicans might be accused of planting themselves on the old Democratic doctrine of opposition to sumptuary laws."

Yes, wide "latitude for debate." People all over Kentucky are now debating among themselves what position the Democratic party would take upon many questions on which the Republican party stands committed in its platform. There is the question of non-partisan courts, for instance.
The repeal of the registration certificate for fifth and sixth class towns and the reduction of taxes. These are only a few of the vital questions which the people will want to know about. Unless the Democratic candidates hold a meeting and write a platform, how are the voters to determine "where they are at."

CENTRAL LABOR UNION INDORSE A. S. OF E.

Men and Wives Will Buy Produce From Union Farmers and no Other.

Owensboro, Ky., June 23.—Brother Weller, representing the A. S. of E., made a splendid speech asking the support of all union men in buying produce from union farmers. The following resolution expressing the sentiment and unanimous opinion was unanimously adopted:

Be it resolved by this Central Labor Union, That we pledge to Brother Weller and through him to all of his brothers in the A. S. of E., our unqualified support in creating a greater demand for their label. Be it further

Resolved, That each delegate be instructed to instruct their respective membership to not buy produce from any one unless it is raised by a member of the A. S. of E. Be it further Resolved, That each union man instruct their wives or any one who buys the produce of the farm to be sure that said produce has been raised by some member of the A. S. of E., and be it further

Resolved, That the delegates of this central body meet any and all delegates of the A. S. of E. in a joint meeting to be held in Owensboro on the 1st Thursday night in July for the purpose of adopting means whereby all organizations can become more closely affiliated and get a more thorough understanding and create a greater demand for the label. It also requested that all locals of A. S. of E. in this Green River District be represented by one delegate. Be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the next issue of The Republican.

What The Democratic Press Says of The Republican Ticket.

The ticket was well chosen and made up of representative men of all sections of the State. The platform briefly but distinctly declares for local option with the county as the unit.—Owensboro Messenger.

The ticket is a good clean ticket.
The Courier-Journal felicitates Mr.
Willson upon coming to his own at last. He has been a wheel-horse in the cause of Republicanism. There is little in the Republican platform to drive away Democrats.—Courier-Journal.

The unanimous nomination of Mr.
Augustus E. Willson meets with unanimous Democratic approval.—Louis-

Mrs. Alex Bennett and children, who had been the guests of Mr. Isaac Bennett and family for several days, returned to their home at Evansville, Ind., last Saturday.

Mrs. Thomas B. Petrie and daughters, little Misses Anna Ruth, and Lella May, Brazil, Ind., will arrive today to be the guests of Mrs. Petrie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fogle.

Mr. A. D. Baskill, who has held an important position with the Texas & Pacific Railway Co., at Big Springs, Texas, has severed his connection with same and accepted a position as bookkeeper with the Pritchard Rice Milling Co., at Houston, Tex.

Mr. Ed Barrass, Sr., who for many years held an important position with the Taylor Coal Company, and who has recently been with his son at Bevier, Ky., has gone to some place in West Virginia to take charge of a large coal mining interest.

Judge R. R. Wedding returned last Saturday from a few days visit to his sons, Charles Clyde and Gregory Wedding at Indianapolis, Ind. He was accompanied home by his daughter, Miss Daisy, who had been visiting at Geddes, S. D., and at Indianapolis.

Rev. L. P. Drake's wife died at Eron, Ky., last Friday, after a brief illness. Rev. Drake and wife went to Eron about three weeks ago to convey the remains of their infant child and Mrs. Drake became too ill to return to their home at Centertown.

Dr. N. Barnett, Caneyville; Mr. R. J. Barnett, Union City, Tenn.; Prof. U. C. Bennett, Clarksville, Tenn.; Prof. L. R. Barnett, Foreman, Ark.; and Mrs. Rev. Jo B. Rogers, Springfield, Ill., are at the bedside of their sister, Mrs. J. L. Barnett, whose serious illness is mentioned in another place in this issue.

The evil of boys throwing at random on the streets was brought prominently to the attention of the citizens and especially to Capt. S. C. K. Cox Monday when Willie Burton threw a small pebble at a dog which missing the mark struck the large glass in the front of the Ohio County Bank building breaking it in an ugly shape. It will cost $50 to replace the broken glass.

Mr. W. B. Hinton, Sunnydale, called to see us while in town yesterday. Mr. Hinton is deaf and dumb, but is a man of more than average intelligence and education, being able to read and write rapidly. He is a subscriber of our paper, and an uncompromising Republican. Mr. Hinton is a great admirer of McKinley and Roosevelt. Pointing to his pictures on the wall in our office and to his pocket, he indicated that it was his administrations which made the full pocket book. Mr. Hinton took great interest in the machinery in our plant, especially did he marvel at the type setting machine.

Mr. R. T. Wedding, wife and children, McHenry, were the guests of relatives in Hartford yesterday.

We do not give standing of the candidates in our Jamestown contest this week. The count will appear in our next issue.

Tom Coghill mention of whose illness has appeared in these columns from time to time is still in a very serious condition at the home of his father, William Coghill.

Our friend, Hon. H. P. Taylor, is not very pretensions in his daily life but it can be truthfully said that he has one of the nicest and best equipped law offices in Hartford.

The ice cream supper given at R. D. Walker's Tuesday night for the benefit of the Baptist church was well attended and highly enjoyed notwithstanding the inclement weather.

Mr. Ode Seibert left Wednesday for Mt. Carmel, Illinois, with his family to make his future home. Mr. Seibert has accepted a good position with a planing mill company at that place.

Jailer Oscar Midkiff and little daughter who have typhoid fever are resting well and no fears of more serious developments are entertained. It is impossible however to tell what turn may set in.

Mr. R. E. L. Summerman has purchased the Collins brick store house, on Market street, consideration $1,850. It is understood that it will be occupied by Mr. Summerman and Judge J. S. Glenn jointly as law offices, in the near future.

The Equity people of the Buford magisterial district held their regular meeting at Washington church yesterday. Dinner was served on the ground and a splendid program was rendered. Great interest in the success and working of the order was manifested.

A prominent citizen has suggested that, since Hartford is firm in the grasp of the rock law, it would be well for the Ohio County Fiscal Court to remove the old, rust covered, iron fence from around the Court House. We believe he is right. The grounds would show to much better advantage, and the fence is now of no earthly use. Let the court think about this suggestion.

Messrs. E. L. Bullington and John W. Taylor, Hartford's efficient tonsorial artists, have formed a partnership under the firm name of Bullington & Taylor, and will open a commodious barber shop and bath rooms in the corner rooms of the old Hartford House, corner Market and Union streets. They will be ready for business under the consolidation next Monday morning.

Mrs. Emma Black, wife of the late J. W. Black, died quite unexpectedly Tuesday night at the Hopkinsville Asylum where she had been three or four years. She was in splendid physical condition and it is supposed that she fell dead evidently from over fatigue. Her remains were brought back home by her husband, Rev. G. J. Boone, and will be buried at Hopkinsville.

Last Tuesday will not do away with one more of our Misses Mary and Nora Wedding who were quite a serious accident. The girls, who were considered safe, became frightened and ran away, leaving the buggy to pieces. Miss Mary jumped and sustained a fracture of the arm near the shoulder. Miss Nora was thrown out, but not seriously hurt. Miss Mary was taken to the home of Mr. S. E. Boone, near by, where her injured arm was dressed by her uncle, Dr. S. J. Wedding, who she was removed to her home in town. She is getting along well, and will soon be out again.

The Methodist Sunday School excursion and picnic last Sunday was beset with many hindrances. About five miles below town the propelling clutch on the "W. Three" broke, and was lost in about 20 feet water. The party was cooped up on the boat all day, while the boat management exhausted every means to recover the lost clutch. On board the barge the party was towed back to town late in the evening by the two yachts belonging to Capt. A. D. White and Messrs. E. W. Cooper and R. C. Porter, to whom they are under many obligations. On the way back a terrific rain and wind storm was encountered and many of the party were drenched and not a few badly frightened. However, the best of humor and good feeling prevailed and all had a good time. The feature of the trip was the bountiful lunch served on the boat by the ladies. Everything good to eat was there in great abundance, and it never tasted better was the unanimous verdict. About 75 pupils of the school and visitors made the trip.

Wednesday afternoon, the Ladies Social Club again delightfully entertained

Mr. James Likens, of Woodberry, is in our midst drilling wells. Mr. John B. McConnell one of our oldest and most prominent citizens died at his residence near here June 19th. He was in his 79th year of age. The recent heavy rains have greatly retarded farming.

THE LATTER DAY OR NEW INDIAN.

Not a Creature of the Days of Fenimore Cooper but a Modern Gentleman.

A new series of Indian portraits is needed. The "noble red man" of Fenimore Cooper and a Catlin, the fierce figure in war paint and feathers, lost his romantic interest when he was confined to a reservation and fed on rations. Now the staid reservation dweller has been supplanted in true by the new man, Indian only in blood and traditions, who is stepping up to take his place as to represent the new Indians. Says Everybody's Magazine, will include a short-haired, dark-faced man, dressed in black slouch hat, dingy white cotton shirt blue overalls and hob-nailed shoes. He may be a Kiowa farmer, who gathered 600 bushels of corn from twenty acres of cultivated land last year, or one of the 391 Pine Ridge Indians, who put up 6700 tons of hay to carry their stock through the winter. Or he may be Plenty Buffalo, who has worked with team and scraper on the Huntley irrigation project in Montana for six months or Bert Fredericks, the Hopi night foreman on the tunnel at the Zuni dam in Arizona.

The pictures will also depict the Indian woman as mistress of a prairie cabin, feeding the chickens or carrying food to live calves and pigs. They will include a group of children, dressed very like white children, trotting off to day school at 8 o'clock with their noon lunches in packages under their arms. A big canvas to hang beside the old paintings of the war dance will show 2000 Sioux attending a convention of the Episcopal church at White Swan, S. D., and listening to address from Bishop Hare, or from their own clergyman, Ames Ross a full-blood.

Help us Get the News.

The following is republished from an exchange but we hope our readers and friends will observe it with reference to The Republic.

Friends, fellow-citizens, or whatever you may be, help the editor in his wild-eyed search for news. When your friends come to you, if you are not ashamed of it, tell him; when your wife gives a tea party, if you have recovered from the effects of the gossip, drop in with the news; when a baby arrives fill your pockets with cigars and call; if you go to a party steal some of the good things and leave them with the item in our sanctum; if your wife licks you come in and let us see your scars and tender sympathy through the paper; if your mother-in-law has died don't be bashful about it; give in all the commonplace news. In short, whenever makes you feel proud, sad, lonesome or glad, submit it to our 21-karat wisdom and see our matted locks part and stand on end with gratitude, which will pour from every pore like moisture from the dew-drenched earth.

Kentucky Call to Victory.

Now for the march, resistless and triumphant, to victory at the polls. Kentucky calls on every son to do duty valiant, fearless, telling. When the immortal Perry met British foes on Erie's troubled waters he struck with such might and main that the fight hardly began till it was over. "We have met the enemy and they are ours," was his glorious announcement. What an incentive and an inspiration to the Republicans of Kentucky! Meet the enemy and make him ours is clear, well-defined duty. It is a command of good citizenship, an edict from the inmost heart of the Commonwealth. Not our task to inflict oppression or pain on fellow citizens and fellow Kentuckians. The party which with its own warm heart's blood melted the fetters of slavery is of all such narrowness incapable.

To redeem Kentucky from misrule, to set her on a march to progress never to be arrested is our obligation and mission. The framers and signers of the Declaration of Independence liberated a continent, but stay liberated it may not without ceaseless vigilance on the part of succeeding generations. The deadly foe, the restless, untiring assailant of civil freedom is corrupt government. Of that evil Kentucky has had too long an experience. The convention fully representative of Republican Kentucky, which has placed such an admirable ticket in the field, has given good citizenship of every class and condition a leadership certain to command and compel victory. Personally and geographically the ticket combines every element needed of strength, respectability and reliability. The voters' time has now come. Organized effort there should be in every district, in every county in all the precincts without exception. The numbers are on one side. But without organization are of small avail. Organized effort means triumph. It holds out a sign in the heavens: "We have met the enemy and he is ours."—Louisville Herald.

Buried Alive.

A terrible story of a young woman who was buried alive is reported from Paris. She was supposed to have died a few days ago, and a burial permit having been given as usual, she was interred on the following day. The grave diggers, however, left the grave only partially filled, thinking there was no hurry, and three days later an inhabitant of the village, passing by the cemetery, stopping to look at the grave, he was surprised to hear loud knocking, apparently inside the coffin, buried under only a very light layer of ground. He could not at first believe his senses and got down to put his ear to the ground.

Not only did the knocking continue but he also heard the young woman calling out and moaning. He hurried for assistance and a doctor, and when the coffin was opened the young woman was found alive, indeed as she sat up and tried to speak. But to their horror, she did not long survive. Every effort was made to help her, but she gave a last gasp, coughed up some blood and sank back in the doctors' arms. This time she was really dead.

Chicken That can Talk.

After ten years of experimenting Clinton H. Willis, a rancher on the Monterey road, has produced a chicken that can talk. The bird is the sixth generation of crosses between a parrot and a guinea hen, and in its every characteristic except the lower half of its bill and the arrangement of its feathers the bird is a chicken. The upper half of the bill is straight like that of the guinea hen, while the lower part is clearly a parrot's bill. Its toes are arranged two and two, instead of three and one, as in the barnyard fowl. At present the chicken's vocabulary is limited to "Morning, Chum; caww, cawwaker, Chum," and a sweet word—"See Jess (Caw)" dispatch in the New York World.

Definition of a Box Car.

The following definition of a box car does not appear in Webster's, but there are plenty of railroad men and shippers who will heartily agree with the one who framed it up:

"A box car belongs to the fowl family. During the spring and summer months it can be found in nearly every part of the country, its favorite haunts being railway tracks, and it is easy of capture. In the autumn, however, like certain other fowls, it goes into hibernation or flies to other climes. Scattered instances are known where specimens are captured during the autumn months. A fowl or a well-greased switch crew is sometimes used in snaring the festive box car, but main strength is the best weapon. In any case the hunter must be very wary, as any noise like the fluttering of a waybill will make the quarry disappear. Some railways own large flocks of domesticated box cars, but they are carefully guarded during the closed season. The wild box car, when captured and fairly well loaded becomes gentle and perfectly stationary."

Golden Rule in Modern Business

We have on several occasions called the attention to the progress made along the lines of justice and enlightenment by various co-operative works in the republic. Among these has been the co-operative Association of America, whose master spirit since its organization has been Mr. Bradford Peck. Mr. Peck built up the greatest department store in Maine, situated at Lewiston, and after the organization of the Co-operative Association of America this store became a part of the activities operated by the association. The aim has been to make the store more and more an exemplification of the broad spirit of fraternity, based on justice, and to this end innovations have steadily been introduced. One of these is the giving to all employees of two weeks' vacation in the summer and two weeks in the winter, or four weeks every year, with pay. Another important innovation which has voiced the co-operative spirit in a very practical manner, has been the giving to each employee of a dividend representing a certain percentage of his salary. Thus, on the 15th of March, of this year, every employee in the great department store received a check amounting to 10 per cent. of his salary. These employees are not stockholders in the work and have not made any financial outlay; but the management recognizes the services they are rendering, and their equitable right to share in the profits of the enterprise—The Aerna.

Squirrel Whips a Snake.

The story of a battle between a squirrel and a large blacksnake is reported by John Withers, a prominent farmer, who lives north of Carrollton. Mr. Withers has some pet squirrels on his farm, and a few days ago when he went to feed them he noticed a commotion going on in the squirrels' nest. In a few moments a red squirrel emerged from the hole in the tree dragging a blacksnake.

Both were fighting desperately. The snake was at a disadvantage, however, for the squirrel had a fine strange hold behind the snake's head and shook his unwieldy antagonist much as a dog would a rat. The snake endeavored to encircle the squirrel with its coil, but could not do so, and presently both the snake and squirrel fell to the ground, the squirrel still retaining his hold on the snake.

Mr. Withers stepped up and the squirrel released his hold and scampered back up the tree. The snake, which measured nearly six feet in length, was nearly dead and was dispatched by Mr. Withers.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Nerve Fag.

If You Waste Your Nerve Energy, After Awhile You Will Suffer For It.

You can waste nerve force by excess, over-work, worry, anxiety, etc.

You can weaken yourself by not eating proper food or securing sufficient rest to renew the nerve energy you use up.

The proper treatment, in addition to good phosphatic food, such as whole meal bread, prepared cereals, etc., is Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

This is as truly a brain and nerve food as any food you could eat, and besides, furnishes strength and tone of its own, which goes to the weakened nerve system, and sets it to rights.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a refreshing, revitalizing tonic food—medicine for the brain and nerves. It reconstructs worn-out nerve tissue, and fills your languid brain with new life and vigor.

Dr. Miles' Nervine has made so many marvelous cures, of people so sick the doctors thought they were incurable, that it is today the standard medicine in many thousands of American homes. The first bottle is guaranteed to help you, or druggist returns your money.

"The extreme heat, close confinement and intense mental strain incident to the banking business, has caused me to suffer with nervousness and insomnia. It gives me pleasure to say that I have used Dr. Miles' Nervine with very satisfactory results in the treatment of these affections. I am now on my feet, bottle and eat and sleep well. In fact have almost forgotten that I possess nerves."—R. L. DALBY, Asst. Cashier, State Bank, Texarkana, Ark.

COMMISSIONER AFTER PENSION ATTORNEYS

Veterans of the Mexican War Believed to Have Been Swindled.

The following clipping from the Courier-Journal, will be of interest to survivors of the Mexican War or their heirs. Oftentimes we see offers from attorneys in different parts of the country, to buy up old claims of Mexican War veterans. Don't sell. Have your claim made up by any home attorney or notary public and send it in yourself.

Washington, June 15.—Hundreds of veterans of the Mexican War, or their heirs, resident in Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and other States are believed to have been swindled by pension attorneys in this city under the pension laws which allow bounty public land grants of 160 acres.

The attorneys in question have been directed by commission Warrent to show why they should not be disbanded from practice before the department, and the Commissioner expressed the opinion today that those who have been swindled, could undoubtedly recover through suits. In a number of instances, attorneys have expressed a willingness to refund to claimants the full amounts which they should have received.

The allegations are that the pension practice of looking up instances where the warrant had not been issued having not been issued, waiting to the veteran or his heir and securing power of attorney to execute the claim. The warrant obtained, the attorney would attempt to purchase it for any price the owner would accept. It is charged that in several cases warrants have been purchased for about one dollar an acre and sold by the attorney for as much as seven dollars an acre.

As soon as Commissioner Warrent learned that this systematic campaign was being made against the slender resources of the people entitled to this small gift he issued an order that hereafter the warrants for the 160 acre grants shall be issued by registered letter, and only to the persons entitled to the grants. In this way the attorneys are cut out from receiving the first class.

A Real Wonderland.

South Dakota, with its rich silver mines, bonanza farms, wide ranges and strange natural formations, is a veritable wonderland. At Mound City, in the home of Mrs. E. D. Clapp, a wonderful case of healing has lately occurred. Her son seemed near death with lung and throat trouble. "Exhausting coughing spells occurred every five minutes," writes Mrs. Clapp. "When I began giving Dr. King's New Discovery, the great medicine, that saved his life and completely cured him." Guaranteed for coughs and colds, throat and lung troubles, by all druggists, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

NOTICE.

Orders Ohio County Court, regular term, June 15th, 1907, Hon. W. B. Taylor, County Judge Presiding.

G. F. Chapman & Co., motion for Graded Common School, at Centertown, Ky.

It appearing that a petition signed by G. F. Chapman, C. K. Renner, H. H. Davis, J. T. Bennett, J. B. Maddox, J. L. Smith, J. B. Sogner, O. B. Bosket, L. B. Goodall, V. S. Hocker, E. E. Bishop, C. L. Brown and others, was filed with the County Judge, at the last regular April term of this court, asking that a Graded Common School district be established, with its boundary as follows, viz: Beginning at W. I. Lightheart's including him; thence to Dick Tichenor's, including him; thence to J. B. Wade's including him; thence to Ed Winney Rowe's, including him; thence to Robert Oglesby's, including him; thence to the Melton farm, including it; thence to H. B. Ashby's, including him; thence to Clarence Tichenor's excluding him; thence to H. O. Bennett's including him; thence to Will McClain's, excluding him; thence to W. P. Ashby's including him; thence to James Adlington's, including him; thence to Nancy Jones' including her; thence to the Ben Dexter farm, including it; thence to Henry Hocker's, including him; thence to Frances Hefflin's, including him; thence to W. T. Mallock's, including him; thence to Virgil Bishop's, including him; thence to Everly Ashby's, including him; thence to the Mary Benton farm, including it; thence to W. I. Rowe's farm, excluding it; thence to the Willis Rowe farm, including it; thence to Jonathan P. Vincent's, including him; thence to the beginning. That the site for the school house of said proposed district be the lot, on the Hartford and South Carrollton road, immediately west of Renner's mill lot and that said site be certified to be, not exceeding two and one-half miles from any part of the boundary of the said proposed district; and it appearing also, that said petitioners are tax payers, legal voters and residents of the proposed Graded Common School district and of the Centertown Justices district of this county; and it also appearing that the County Superintendent has endorsed on said petition, his approval of same, and that a majority of the Trustees of each Common School District that will be embraced within said proposed Graded School District, in whole or in part, have endorsed their approval on said petition, as provided by law, and the Court being sufficiently advised, orders, that R. B. Martin, Sheriff of this county be and he is hereby directed to cause a poll to be opened and an election to be held at Centertown, Ohio County, Kentucky, in the present public school building or some other suitable place, on the 18th day of July, 1907, the same being 10 days or more after the entry of this order, for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal white voters residing within the boundary of the said proposed Graded School District, whether there shall be levied and collected an annual tax of 50 cents on each one hundred dollars of property value therein, subject to State or county taxation, owned by white persons, and $1.00 of poll tax on each white male inhabitant of said proposed Graded Common School District over twenty-one years of age, for the purpose of establishing and maintaining a Graded Common School District and for erecting, purchasing or repairing suitable buildings therefor as provided in sections 100 to 105 and including 130 of the Common School Law of Kentucky.

The officers of said election will also cause the legal voters of said proposed Graded School District, a vote for five persons to be trustees of same, in case said tax shall be approved.

The officers of said election will make return, in due form, of the result of same, at the earliest day practicable.

This Dog Chews Gum.

A friend of ours has a dog which in my estimation possesses much more intelligence than the average dog intelligence. She is a gum-chewer and also has a deadly appetite for a lighted cigar. The first time I called at the home of my friend, I was unapproachable for some time and he suddenly became friendly, even putting her paws on my knee, licking her chops, and finally wagging her stump. I expressed surprise at her "making up" so suddenly when when one of the members of the household informed me she wanted my gum. Being hooked joyously on my making a movement to give her, he, on receiving it immediately started chewing. The funny part of it was that she did not swallow it, but half an hour later was lying in the corner still busily chewing.—Chicago Tribune.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

The Watch and the Whistle.

The worker on the farm, or in the shop, or anywhere else, who carries a watch, which he frequently refers to as though he feared he might overwork a minute or two, is always suspected by his employer. The employer may be never so liberal, and may not wish his employees to work a minute overtime, yet when he sees them often inquiring of their time-piece as though they had an important engagement at a certain minute, the impression made is not a good one.

Now, a hired man has a right to carry a watch the same as has his employer, but the hand who watches his watch is sure to be watched himself.

And the hand that has his ear turned, constantly so as to catch the first sound of the noon or night whistle does not make a favorable impression upon his employer. He stands in the attitude of fear that he may do a little too much work—a little more than the contract calls for, and the employer feels toward him just as he would feel toward him just as he would feel toward the employer did that individual manifest an

PRIZE POTATOES.

Excellent Quality of Tubers Grown Under Straw.

The accompanying illustration is from a photograph made at the 1906 Illinois state fair, and the potatoes shown are prize winning samples from my collection of forty-five varieties grown that were shown at the state fair last fall. I was awarded first prize for best and largest collection and also took fifteen first prizes on single exhibits out of a list of seventeen.

The potatoes here shown as well as my entire crop were grown under straw. Some of the prize winning varieties are Rural New Yorker No. 2, Carmen No. 3, Sir Walter Raleigh,

A FEW PRIZE WINNERS.

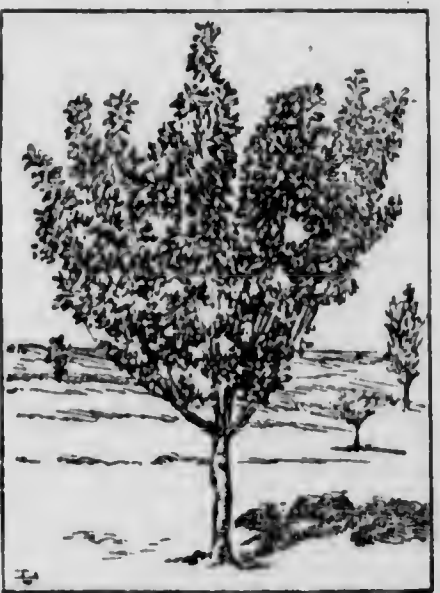

Banner, Purple's Eureka, Early Ohio, World's Fair and Snowflake. Last year was an exceptionally good year for potatoes grown under straw. The tubers are smoother and more uniformly large and of better quality than I have seen for years. I think the farmers of St. Clair county grow more potatoes under straw than any other county in the state and perhaps in the United States. Thousands of bushels of these potatoes are shipped from Belleville to other points in the county and to the St. Louis market. Hundreds of bushels are also peddled out to private customers. The keeping and eating qualities of my potatoes grown under straw are excellent.—S. M. Ripley in New England Homestead.

Kaffir Corn in Kansas.

Both the saccharine and the nonsaccharine varieties of sorghum endure drought better than corn and are also less susceptible to the injurious influences of hot winds. It is believed that Kaffir corn and certain other nonsaccharine forms possess greater powers of drought and heat resistance than the saccharine varieties. The statement has been not infrequently made, however, especially in Kansas and other portions of the semiarid plains region, that the saccharine sorghums have proved themselves fully as valuable in this respect as any of the nonsaccharine varieties. It is undoubtedly true that the area devoted to saccharine sorghums in the state of Kansas is increasing less rapidly than is the area devoted to Kaffir corn. This may, however, be explained by the fact that Kaffir corn is grown on a large scale in that state as a grain crop in place of corn, as well as for forage purposes.—Carleton R. Ball.

Yellow Transparent Apples.

This transparent apple tree is eight years old. It is a part of the Montana experiment station's young orchard. The foliage is thrifty, and the tree near Bozeman has every appearance of being hardy, says Orange Judd Farmer. It comes into bearing rapidly. Transparent apples are highly prized as autumn table fruit.

TRANSPARENT APPLE TREE.

The Range Transformed.

The passing of the mule and its extensive herds of cattle has been freely predicted and no doubt will eventually take place. That vast acreages of range country are being transformed into farms is a matter of common knowledge. That the southwestern cattleman is becoming more familiar with the value of his available feeds for fattening cattle is evident, which no doubt will result in more feeding or finishing of cattle in that section of the country. Notwithstanding these facts there is more or less uncertainty surrounding the extent and the nature of the future cattle business on the numerous farms resulting from the subdivision of the extensive ranges.—H. W. Mumford.

CABBAGE IS KING.

The Immense Shipments That Are Made From South Texas.

Cotton is king of a vast domain throughout the south, but here and there his sway has been disputed and the scepter has passed away from his palsied hand in certain outlying provinces. One of these provinces is the Texas coast country, extending from Galveston to Brownsville, from which immense daily shipments of berries, onions, cabbage and other truck are now being shipped in carloads and trainloads. Having been closely identified with the beginnings of these shipments, having watched and assisted them for some years, we feel proud of the success these pioneers have achieved in establishing a new and profitable industry.

The Crop.

The winter cabbage crop is worth from $40 to $200 per acre, depending on fertility of land and the skill of the grower. Yields of 15,000 pounds are common. This, at a net price of 1 cent per pound, or $1 per 100 pounds, represents $150 per acre. Higher yields have reached 30,000 pounds. When the plants have been carefully grown in the cold frames and transplanted to the rich fields in early fall, the yields often exceed 15,000 pounds to the acre. When seed are drilled in the fields where plants are to stand until maturity, a larger area can be tended per man, but the yield usually falls short of those above indicated. This is not always the case. We have seen some rich and especially well prepared land on which the seed were drilled turn off 20,000 pounds per acre.

In Much Demand.

There is a demand for this winter cabbage from all parts of the country. We quote from a recent issue of the Corpus Christi Caller to show the movement of the cabbage crop during one week of March at that point alone, under the heading "Cabbage Is King:"

"The vegetable shipping business is opening up in earnest again at Corpus Christi, the produce rolling out now by the carload as well as by express daily, the total carloads shipped so far this season being fifty cars straight cabbage and five cars mixed, making seventy-two cars cabbage and twenty cars mixed vegetables to date of average weight of produce in car of 22,000 pounds, and the cry is 'And still they come.' Nine straight carloads rolled out of Corpus Christi Wednesday."—Texas Farm and Ranch.

BACK TO THE FARM.

For Real Living Under the Clean Sky In Quiet Content.

On the streets of one of our large western cities, a few days ago, the writer met an old farmer. He looked quite like "a fish out of water," and the conversation that followed showed that his appearance did not belie his situation. He said that after making a great success on the farm he had removed with his children to the city; that at first, while he had the education of his sons and daughters to look after, he had been reasonably content, but after a few years, when the young people had finished their schooling, gone into business for themselves and married, he began to find city life intolerable.

"I hate the noise, the dirt, the smoke and the perpetual excitement, hurry and worry," he exclaimed. "I long for the country. I am going out to the farm again. I shall surround myself with the things I like—horses, cattle, hogs, chickens, etc.—and spend my old age under the clean sky in quiet and content. My wife held out for a long time, desiring to be near the children, but last week she decided for the farm, and, thank God, we are going back!"

The experience of this good friend was typical. No life is sounder, sweeter or better than that of the farm. He who has known its joys may be happy amid other surroundings if provided with congenial occupation, but when he has nothing to do the changed situation becomes unbearable. The city has its attractions and advantages, but for real living and rational enjoyment of God's good gifts to man give us the farm every time. It is the best place to live, the best place to grow old and the best place to die.—Iowa Homestead.

Farms in Virginia.

It also remains true that the ratio of farms selling to farms for sale is exceedingly small and that in many parts of Virginia live farms as much land can be bought for $5 an acre as can be sold at $25 an acre. But even if every farm in the state could be sold for two or three times as much as it was assessed at a few years ago this would not necessarily bring corresponding benefit to the owners, for most of our farmers, unable in any other calling to support their families, would still find it to their advantage to hold on to their land.—Southern Plauter.

The Gain in Liming Land.

The Maryland experiment station notes that in some tests of the value of liming the soil the limed plot gave a better yield in every case than the unlimed one and that the average net return was $4.50 per acre per year. While this may seem to be small at first, yet when applied to a 100 or a 150 acre farm it would mean from $450 to $600 more for each farm annually.

In the Weeds and Grass.

The coming of the first weeds in the garden inaugurates a constant struggle that must be kept up for weeks and requires the cultivator and the plow to be over on the move. As the land becomes vacant sown corn or plant sweet potatoes—draws or vines. Keep the strawberries as free from grass and coco or knob grass as possible.

THE MULBERRY.

It is Considered Worthy of a More Extended Culture.

The mulberry has several valuable features which, according to a recent bulletin from the North Carolina station, makes it worthy of a more extended culture in the home grounds than is at present given to it.

To begin with, the fruit will grow successfully on nearly any kind of soil, doing best probably on moist sandy loams. The tree is a rapid, vigorous grower, requires practically no culture, makes an ornamental shade tree, and some of the better varieties will yield from ten to twelve bushels of fruit per season. A valuable feature of the fruit is that it ripens almost continuously over a period of two to four months every year. The fruit is greatly relished by hogs and poultry. Birds prefer it to cherries or strawberries, and when planted in the vicinity of these fruits it serves as a protection to them.

For Planting About the Farm.

From the standpoint of fruit production the North Carolina station recommends the following varieties for planting about the farm: New American, Black English, Stubbs and Townsend of the black fruited varieties and White English and White Russian of the white fruited sorts. The Black English is considered as one of the most satisfactory varieties for planting in North Carolina.

White Fruited Varieties.

Of the white fruited varieties recommended by the North Carolina station White English is considered by far the best. It is a heavy bearer, producing sweet, medium sized fruits of good quality from May to July. The White Russian seems to be a small, bushy, very hardy sort and quite productive. The fruit is of medium size, white, very sweet and of fair quality. The season is from May to June.

In addition to the use of mulberries as a fruit, the leaves constitute the chief food of the silkworm.

Mulberries are propagated from seeds or by grafting, budding, layering and cuttings.

Worms in Fowls.

For worms in fowls feed a mash food each morning for a week containing a liberal amount of freshly crushed garlic bulbs, or, if you cannot obtain them, good strong raw onions. Use as much of this in the mash as you can get the birds to eat readily. Disinfect all droppings with a 2 per cent solution of sulphuric acid. Burn up all litter material and thoroughly disinfect your poultry houses. If you leave droppings lying about they will be scratched over by other birds, and these will become affected also.

My Hair Ran Away

Don't have a falling out with your hair. It might leave you! Then what? That would mean thin, scraggly, uneven, rough hair. Keep your hair at home! Fasten it tightly to your scalp! You can easily do it with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is something more than a simple hair dressing. It is a hair medicine, a hair tonic, a hair food.

FREE TRIP TO THE JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION TO BE GIVEN BY THIS PAPER.

TO TWO MOST POPULAR YOUNG LADIES IN OHIO CO.— ONE NORTH AND ONE SOUTH OF ROUGH RIVER.

Question to be Settled By Ballot, Under Rules Similar to Our Mammoth Cave Trip Last Year.

Last year The Republican gave a very successful free trip to the Mammoth Cave, for Ohio county school boys, determining the favored ones by a popularity contest. We feel, this year, that the young ladies should have a chance. So we have determined to send free of any cost whatever, the most popular young lady in Ohio county, residing North of Rough river, and one residing South of the river, to the Jamestown Exposition. We do not desire to invite any trouble on the age question, and hence make no limit. Any lady who may consider herself young enough to make the trip, may enter the contest. The contest will close Saturday, August 31, at 5 o'clock p. m. The trip will be made sometime in the month of September, and the two successful ladies will be accompanied to Jamestown, by one of the editors of this paper, and his wife. Every item of expense including railroad fare, hotel bills, exposition tickets, etc., will be met by this paper.

CONDITIONS OF CONTEST.

Every dollar paid in subscriptions to The Republican, whether arrears or advance, will entitle the person making such payment to 100 votes, and they will be recorded for any one of the candidates as directed. Amounts of less than one dollar will be credited with a proportionate vote. Any one will be allowed to vote for a candidate residing in any part of Ohio county regardless of the voter's residence.

A coupon will be printed in each issue of The Republican, and when clipped and sent to our office, will be counted as five votes for the candidate whose name appears on the same. A supply of blank ballots will be furnished to any one on application. The names and standing of the various candidates will be printed in these columns from time to time. Books will be opened, ready for votes next Monday morning, March 18. Select your candidate, and arrange to aid her in every possible way.

NOT GOOD AFTER JULY 1.

Clover Hay Sells High.

Hopkinsville, Ky., June 4.—The highest prices of the season were paid here for clover hay this week, several loads of this year's cutting being sold for $20 per ton. This is about $3 per ton above the market quotations, but that which was sold at this figure was unusually fine. Reports from the country indicate that the yield of clover will be much better in every way than had been expected. The cold weather caused it to suffer heavily, but the warm weather and sunshine have brought it out wonderfully. At the prices now being paid the farmers will come out winners, even if the yield is short of the average, as clover hay has been known to sell as low as $6 per ton.

Valuable Land to be Sold.

On Monday, July 1st, at 1 o'clock p. m. I will sell my farm, situated on the Hartford and Beaver Dam Pike one mile from the court house, at public auction. The land will be divided into lots containing from 2 to 50 acres. This land adjoins the Hartford city limits and the Phillips addition which recently sold at such fine prices. The house has 7 rooms, is in excellent repair and will be sold with 10 acres of ground, on which are 2 good wells, cistern, all necessary out buildings, and orchard. This will make an ideal suburban home, in easy reach of Hartford College. A 20 acre plot and 50 acre plot will make good small farms, splendidly situated for truck gardening.

The land will be sold in lots as indicated and as a whole, with privilege to reject bids. Terms: 1-3 cash balance in one and two years with interest.

Sale will be on premises.

FRANK WESTERFIELD.
